INTRODUCTION

The present index covers the contents of the four Series A, B, C and D of Pacific Linguistics up till the end of 1970, including numbers in preparation towards the end of that year, as well as references to manuscripts accepted for publication, but not yet processed.

The index consists of four sections, and the bibliographical information about the various numbers of Pacific Linguistics and their contents is repeated in them from various points of view:

The first section contains a chronological listing of the numbers of the four series, including information about the various individual contributions contained in those numbers which constitute collections of articles etc. such as most numbers of Series A, number 13 of Series C, and numbers 1 and 2 (two Bulletins) of Series D. Information about numbers in preparation is added at the end of each of the four series, and manuscripts received are listed after the end of Series D.

The second section contains all individual articles, monographs, books and special publications in alphabetical listing by the surnames of the authors. In the case of publications co-authored by two or several authors, the publication is listed under each one of them, with the names of the other author(s) mentioned in each instance.

In this section, references to those numbers of Series A and D which consist of a number of separate contributions have been excluded as redundant, because the individual contributions constituting them appear themselves in this alphabetical section under the names of their authors. Anyone wishing to acquaint himself with those bibliographical features (e.g. the total number of pages) of such numbers of Series A and D which are not recorded in the entries dealing with the individual contributions, is advised to refer back to the first section which contains a complete listing of such numbers.

Number 13 of Series C has however been included in this alphabetical section as a separate entry (under the surnames of the two editors), because the names of the two editors do not appear elsewhere in this section in this capacity.

The third section contains all individual articles, monographs, books, and special publications in an alphabetical listing by the surnames of the authors (the authors are entered separately in the case of co-authored publications) under a number of headings, themselves arranged alphabetically, which indicate the geographical areas to which the subject matters treated in the respective publications refer. Several publications have been included under more than one heading because their contents relate to more than one area, and a "non-regional" heading has been used for those whose contents shows no connection with any particular area. Again, reference to numbers of Series A and D consisting of more than one contribution has been omitted, and number 13 of Series C has also been excluded from this section.

The fourth section contains a comparable listing under subject headings. Again, several contributions have been entered under more than one heading, and numbers of Series A and D consisting of more than one contribution, as well as number 13 of Series C, have been excluded.

To avoid lengthy repetitions, a number of abbreviations have been used in the entries. The following is a list:

[LCC]	then known as Linguistic Circle of Canberra Publications
PaAusL	Papers in Australian Linguistics
PaBoL	Papers in Borneo Linguistics
PaML	Papers in Linguistics of Melanesia
PaNGL	Papers in New Guinea Linguistics
PaPhL	Papers in Philippine Linguistics
PaSEL	Papers in South-East Asian Linguistics
PL	Pacific Linguistics
PLSCapell	Pacific Linguistic Studies in Honour of Arthur Capell

In the individual entries, the word "Series", and the abbreviation "No." have been omitted. A typical entry would appear as follows:

McElhanon, K.A. 1967. "Selepet Vowel Clusters." PaNGL, 6. PL, A.12. 1-17.

This would read in full:

McElhanon, K.A. 1967. "Selepet Vowel Clusters." Papers in New Guinea Linguistics No.6. Pacific Linguistics, Series A.12. 1-17.
